Since the last meeting nearly every bit of our time was spent on making sure the Great Western War would happen without any incidents. We were in charge of the web site and also the Gatebook as well as coordinating all of the information to be presented.

For the next war, we have re-written the entire GWW site to include easier navigation and better presentation, as well as created a functional calendar to insure timely reception of information.

Created a War Minister's Manual to help define what and when functions need to be completed.
